

The New York Times

The New York Times

Fashion & Style

MORE SLIDE SHOWS ▾

Pulse

◀ 3 of 5 ▶

Greed Is Bad, Gold Is Good

JUST as buzz is building around the release of "Wall Street 2," big gold watches have come back into fashion, showing up on the wrists of quite a few editors and stylists. This time around, though, they are decidedly more fun than flash — gold-plated stainless-steel versions that look like a million bucks with a tan, but are inexpensive enough to bang around all summer. Wear them with silk tops and Dries Van Noten trousers, as the fashion pack does, or a bikini and a Borsalino. Greed is not good. But a little cheap 'n' chic glam never hurts.

Clockwise from right: Timex watch, $75 at timex.com; Michael Kors, $250 at Michael Kors; Emporio Armani, $445 at Emporio Armani.

Credit: Tony Cenicola/The New York Times

f FACEBOOK | RECOMMEND | t TWITTER | e SIGN IN TO E-MAIL | s SHARE